Forecast for Sunday 09 May 2021

Weather: Quite cloudy overnight with some lingering patchy drizzle and light rain. During the day conditions will gradually brighten up with cloud lifting and becoming more scattered. Some sunny spells will develop especially over more eastern ranges around Crianlarich. Showers will readily develop during the morning especially around more western ranges around Arrochar and Loch Lomond, one or two of these will become more prolonged and heavy. Becoming mainly dry with a lot of cloud clearing on Sunday evening and feeling warmer than of late.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 60% increasing to 70%, some low cloud will shroud the tops in the morning otherwise tops will mainly be clear apart from in heavier showers.

Visibility: Initially some scattered low cloud will shroud some ranges down to 600m however this will become quite isolated, mainly confined to western ranges. By late morning cloud will mainly be well above the tops but patches may fall to 700m in any showers that pass and perhaps 5-600m temporarily in heavier showers in the west. General visibility will be good, perhaps dipping to moderate in any heavier showers.
